India is one country, where every religion and community celebrates their culture. There are festivals of India state wise, religion-based, and community-wise. So, every day is a new celebration in this country. Ganesh Chaturthi, is one of the important religious festivals of India, celebrated in most of the states of India and abroad.

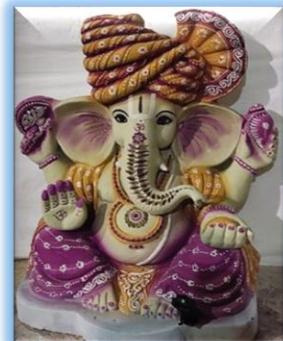

Lord Ganesh idols are installed in homes and as well as in Ganesh pandas of colonies, welfare associations, temples and institutions. These idols are decorative and are made up of plaster of paris (POP) and synthetic colours creating highly polluted environment during their production, worship and disposal. They not only harms the environment but also creating health problems to the artisans who all are involved in making and painting of idols from POP and synthetic paints respectively. The only solution to the above mentioned issues is through use of clay for making objects and idols and replacing synthetic paints with natural paints.

PJTSAU is pioneer in commercially producing a wider range of paints from different natural dye yielding plant sources grown in India. The production involves the most acceptable colour palette of paints and painted clay Ganesh idols are sold at Natural Dye Processing and Incubation Center, PJTSAU. Thus creating a pollution free environment and celebrating eco-friendly Ganesh Chaturthi. The developed natural dye paints are biodegradable, easy application through brush, spray gun and hand too. The multiple uses by painting on clay, fried clay, wood, cane and paper is added advantage with these paints. The paint and painted idols price list along with terms & conditions are given below.
